

Room 13's Rad Designs

30th June 2014 - By Iwantthat

I just love how many local designers are interdisciplinary creators – the Room 13 team is a good example. They've created graphic design campaigns for some fabulous South African brands and their web work is exemplary too – now they've used their skills to produce a range of fabrics and wallpapers – because, because they can! There's an old world quality to some of the patterns they've created – something you'd see while searching for inspiration in the V&A textile archives but there's a modern geo thing with a bit of tribal thrown in too – have a look at the shweshwe-esque design they've created too.

And i can attest they look great in real life too – a friend of mine recently upholstered some chairs in a few of their fabrics and they look amazing!
